asked about this "non-forfeiture" clause,
"Suppose I pay 50 cents a month for five years," said he, "and then I die. Will you bury me?"

The manaver explained that a very pretty funeral would be furnished provided the reporter's relatives or friends agreed to continue the payments on the contract and gave good security for their promise. Otherwise the reporter would have to be buried by his friends or go to Potter's field, the company retaining the mayments already made.

"Then this differs from life insurance, an which you have to die to win?" was auggested. The manager admitted that there was a difference.

"Suppose I sign a contract now to pay 50 cents a month, and next fall I come in and set you to bury a friend who had seen better days, and had been a college classmate of mine," said the visitor. "Will you bury him on my contract?"

"Yes, if your contract is indersed by tract?"

"Yes, if your contract is indorsed by two men whom we know and who will guarantee the payments for the next eight years." The green circular for Brooklyn peo-ple has nine contracts at various prices, from 55 to $250. Contract "A" reads as follows:

The preparation and preservation of the body One initation resewood or wainut coffin, with Outside case,

Attendance of undertaker at funeral, Opening and filling the grave.

Agreement of some of the control of ing and filling the grave. It will be observed that there is no hearse included in this contract, but a paragraph in the circular covers this point. This reads: "When a white hearse is required, $7 will be a ded to the above process."

A big yellow caterpillar crawled down the nose of Duration Blake as he slumbered on a nose of Duration Blake as he slumbered on a bench in front of the City Hall fountain yesterday morning. It was just beginning to encounter the stubbles of his upper in when Lean-Charley Powers, sitting on an opposite bench, opened his eyes. Lean-Charley sirang to his seet at once, and with a blow from his fist crushed the worm upon the face of the sleeping Blake. A ruddy stream trickied down from Blake's nose, and he opened his eyes and yawned. Then he rubbed his face and asked Lean-Charley what the excitement was about.

"There was a worm going for your mouth and I smote him," replied Lean-Charley.

"That was very kind of you," returned Blake. "Perhaps that is why my nose is theeding." tleeding."
"I think so," returned Lean-Charley, applogetically. "But the act was absolutely necessary to prevent you from naving a ball taste in your mouth."
They snook hands upon it and then Duration Blake strolled over to the fountain and held his head over the brink, while Lean-charley sprinkled water on the back of his neck to stop the hemorrhage.

WHAT'S BEEF TO CHARITY?

This Ship's Owners Help a Vessel to Distress and Win Their Case. Jugge Brown, in the United States District. Court, yesterday dismissed, but without costs, the libel brought by the Morris Beef Company against the steamsnip Wells City. The company shipped a quantity of chilled beet at this port, and on the voyage the We'ls City stopped to tow the Catalana, which was in distress, long enough to destroy the beef. She got $2,050 salvage in Englant for towing the Catalana.

The Judge says there was a clause in the contract which permitted the Wells City to help distressed vessels. Upon request of agreritsers MAR.
